

Comedy Legend Phyllis Diller

Phyllis Diller, the legendary First Lady of Comedy, was the Original Queen and Ambassador of Plastic Surgery.

Phyllis was the first celebrity to openly champion plastic surgery. Over two decades, she admitted to dozens of surgeries and procedures. She was given an award by the American Academy of Cosmetic Surgery for her role in the acceptance of beauty surgery.

Phyllis Diller died in 2012 at the age of 95, but her legacy lives on through tribute artist, Laurie Ayers. Laurie has a long history performing standup comedy, character sketch comedy, and celebrity impersonating.

She is on a mission to keep the First Lady of Comedy's spirit alive as the modern day Champion of Plastic Surgery by Being Phyllis.

Being Phyllis with Laurie Ayers

"If I have one more facelift, it'll be Cesarean."

Phyllis Diller Lookalike for Your Event - Laurie Ayers

"We had Laurie Ayers, 'Being Phyllis Diller,' as our Featured Guest! It was a fantastic hour of 'Phyllis Frolics and Fun!' Whenever ANYONE is looking for lots of laughs for a group, company gathering or any such event, you'll want to book Laurie Ayers' 'Being Phyllis Diller!' show. Everyone will LOVE it!" - John Theillon, co-host of 'JT & The Jersey Jewel,' at Hamilton Media

"Laurie has channeled into Miss Diller. That, for me makes it more of the tribute to a woman who was our first female comic that inspired women to become comedians". - Angelo Capone, as Jerry Lewis

"If you're looking for incredible, nostalgic entertainment, reach out to Laurie Ayers as Phyllis Diller. My international audience loved her! She's professional, reliable, and classically funny. - Geri Petito, Internet International Radio Show Host
